

Getting started with Kindle® Fire devices

You can use OverDrive's mobile app to borrow and enjoy eBooks, audiobooks and streaming video from your library on your Kindle Fire, Fire HD or Fire HDX.

Note: Kindle Books are currently available for U.S. libraries only. However, users from any country can still follow the steps below to install OverDrive's mobile app and access OverDrive Read, EPUB eBooks, MP3 audiobooks and streaming video on a Kindle Fire, Fire HD or Fire HDX (some digital formats may not be available from all libraries).

Step 1

Download our app, OverDrive Media Console (OMC) from one of the following:

- Amazon Appstore
- <http://omc.overdrive.com/kindle>

Step 2

Open OMC and follow the prompts to create an OverDrive account (optional). If you don't see these prompts or if you choose not to create an account, skip to step 3. After you create an account and log in, you'll be asked to create or sign in with an Adobe ID, which is required to download protected eBooks.

Note: Only newer versions of OMC will prompt you to sign in or sign up for an OverDrive account.

Step 3

In OMC, find your library's OverDrive-powered website. In newer versions of the app, you can do this by swiping from left to right to open the Home menu, then tapping + Add a library. In older versions of the app, tap the + icon (or, if you don't have this icon, go to Menu > Get Books).

- Tap the ★ to save your library's website to your library list.
- Tap your library's name to start browsing.

Step 4

Log into your library's OverDrive-powered website with your library card and borrow a title.

Step 5

Find borrowed titles under your account on your library website. You can:

- Download (select one format) EPUB eBooks* and MP3 audiobooks directly to OMC.
- Add streaming video to OMC.
- Select Kindle Book (U.S. only) to complete checkout on Amazon's website and send the book to your Kindle.
- Tap Read (in your browser) to open and read OverDrive Read eBooks right in your browser. For the best reading experience, turn off Accelerate page loading.

*Note: To read eBooks in OMC, you'll need to authorize your device with an Adobe® ID. It's a one-time, free process that takes just moments to complete.

out of the norm. I had come to depend on my schedule and order of years to keep me on an even keel.

Geena secured her seatbelt. "We've spent a lifetime keeping this ourselves. What's a few more days or years?" Sarcasm laced her w

I noted the bitterness in her tone, but I said nothing. I had no desir into this further. In fact, I wished fervently that I could forget we'd brought the subject up.

Geena had already plugged in our address on the GPS, while I maneuvered through the ferry traffic to disembark. Lights glittered f buildings and reflected on the black waters of Sinclair Inlet. It felt familiar. I followed the other cars onto Washington Avenue without word.

This was a huge mistake, I told myself. Over the years I'd learned with our family secrets—our life of unspeakable questions. What in world was Dad thinking to bring us all here now? I felt my chest tig "At the next street make a right onto the Manette Bridge," Geena about the time the GPS announced the same.

I suddenly felt exhausted. A sort of oppression had settled over me—weighing me down, stealing all of my residual energy. I heard before I saw the flashing lights of the ambulance pop around the cor ahead of us. I braked hard and waited for it to pass, but in my mind ambulance in the tree-lined driveway of our summer home.

I could still hear the paramedics calling out numbers, orders, con "She's not breathing. We're going to need to intubate."
